

1. State the convolution chain used to calculate the received signal from the electrical pulse.

Answer: The convolution chain starts with the electrical pulse then the transducer impulse response (tx), then the medium function (differentiated dM/dt), then back to the transducer impulse response (rx).